Linens

This business was founded upon the theory that the finer grades of merchandise could be retailed for less money than had customertly been demanded for them.

These items---examples illustrating a pricing-policy universal three these superb stocks---demonstrate that this theory was so prices on such goods are entirely new to the records of high-class retailing

The "Princess Coat," designed and made exclusively for this house. glove-fitting, full-length coat with the effect of a princess gown. Exhibited in invisible-striped black and tan cloths and in deep green and fawn-colored velveteens. A handsome street garment which we consider the cleverest model of this season 45.00 and 55.00

Full-length Black Broadcloth Coat lined with white Caracul-cloth Coats in jointy pany model. Outlined peace de cygne and interlined. Artistically inleid coller with silk braid, coller finished with touches of gold and cuffs, three-quarter sleeves. An excellent wrap braid for street and evening wear 32.50

Motor Coats'in soft-toned stripes, plaids and mixtures, with coller and cuffs of contrasting material and new fawn-green, with high, silky histre. " A well cut, serviceable garment, finished with high storm collar 13.50

And especially for Wednesday a remarkably handsome garmon a low price, as follows:

Women's Overcoats in brown, black, blue and new dull mixtures. Some strapped, with inlaid collars, some finished with velvet collar and cuffs and mannish pockets. An attractive, liberally cut, well tailored model

These prices will average one-fourth less than the figures for which the same grades of linens are usually sold: Bleached Table Damasks; value 1.00, the yard

Damask Table Cloths; value 3.00, each. . Napkins of Heavy Irish Damask; value 5.00, doz. Hemstitched Damask Lunch Sets; value 6.50, per set . . . Linen Sheets, hernstitched; value 5.75, the pair Linen Pillow Cases, hemstitched; value 1.50, the pair Huck Towels; value 5.50, the dozen
